Never fear! The women are here!

The CUNY School of Labor and Urban Studies is honored to co-host the 44th UALE Northeast Summer School for Women in Unions and Worker Organizations in its inaugural year as a school dedicated to labor and urban issues. Women from all over the Northeast region of the country and beyond learn the skills and knowledge needed to play leadership roles in their unions, communities and in worker organizations. One of the most valuable aspects of the summer school is the chance to meet and network with other union and worker center women from around the region.

44th UALE Northeast Summer School for Women in Unions and Worker Organizations
Hofstra University
July 27th -31st, 2019

Dedicated to our sisters Lois Gray and Carolyn Jacobson.
This year the NE UALE Women’s Summer School is hosted by the CUNY School of Labor and Urban Studies and Hofstra University. The summer school will take place at Hofstra University from July 27th to July 31st.

The NE school brings together 120 union and activist women from the region for four days and nights of rigorous classes, including labor history, organizing, skills-building and social media. Plenaries create unity and solidarity and focus on current movements for social and economic justice for workers.

Become a sponsor of the 44th UALE Northeast Summer School, see more information here!

---

Single Room
Registration - $513.00
This registration type includes housing, meals, and registration for summer school.

Double Room
Registration - $473.00
This registration type includes a shared room, all meals, and registration for summer school.

Commuter
Registration - $295.00
This registration type includes registration for summer school and all meals.

Register here!

Scholarships are available, please email Diana Robinson at diana.robinson@slu.cuny.edu if you would like receive a scholarship application.